THE COOK

Image : Tout En Vrac

A newlywed woman, looking like she just came out of a pin-up calendar from the 50's, is bustling around the stove. She only has one single idea in mind : becoming the perfect housewife by mastering the ultimate recipe: the meringue choco-caramel pie on its apple-compote bed.

In a blink of an eye, flour is sifting, eggs are beaten up, sugar is caramelizing but the recipe turns sour. The lady is not alone; she is fighting against a devilish kitchenware. Powerless against the alliance formed between an electric egg-beater, a food processor and a convection oven, she will have to fight for her life if she doesn't want to end up like roasted meat.

ABOUT THE COOK

«La Cuisinière» (The Cook) is a duel between a young woman and her work environment. The kitchen is no longer a set, it is a real, living character.

Who is controlling who ? Who is mastering who ? Who is influencing who ? The young lady will have to fight to tame the impish modernity.

Directly inspired by the American way of life icons from the fifties, we intend to surprise and make the spectator laugh, but we also want to touch people with a subtle play. The audience is carried along a theatrical cartoon, jumping from a gag to another, from a comic situation to another. Through this outrageously funny duet, we give a sparkling vision of the discovery of free will.

This young woman is like a theater clown : she really wants to give the best of herself. She applies herself to being a good wife. She wants to honour the rank that society gave her. But soon enough, she comes face to face with the complexity and the whole absurdity of rules of propriety and perfect housewife's position. This character will face situations that she cannot understand. The more she will try to fit this pin up's image, the more she will feel stifled.

A comic strip emerge in town, bringing out the ritual moment of cooking. By preparing food, the cooker is meeting basic and natural human beings' need. From this open gap on imagination, we can observe the magic of a slice of life.

Charlotte Meurisse - Director.

TOUT EN VRAC

Tout En Vrac was born in Grenoble in 2004. Our creations were performed on many events in Rhône-Alpes, entire France, and abroad.

One of the pillars of our work is the breaking point between imagination and reality. The bridge between the two of them is thin enough to pass from one to another, opening some new worlds.

By investing the public space, we open a new world in our daily life where dreaming, creating becomes a possible act again. We offer a sensitive and crazy universe, vast and amazing. Reality is the material of imagination. From squealing pulley to old floor, from constructions to pyrotechnics, we like to build our shows on this unlimited stage : the street. We tell stories with forms and images to create some dreams in the middle of town.
